

Clinical Massage Therapy Applications in End of Life Care

About this Book:

This colorful user friendly clinical guide is the first of its kind for practitioners in end of life care. It covers the safe and therapeutic use of massage therapy in end of life care using current standards of practice in working with clients with chronic and terminal illness. It is created for massage therapists, nurses and other healthcare practitioners who are trained in therapeutic massage techniques.

Chapters include:

- Information about care of the dying in America
- Massage Therapy Roles in end of life care
- Putting Evidence into Massage Therapy Practice
- The Dying Process
- Disease Specific Treatment Plans
- Symptom Management and Massage Therapy
- Common Medical Devices, Tubes and Equipment
- Assessment Scales and Tools
- Contraindications in Massage Therapy
- The Massage Therapy Plan of Care
- Documentation of Massage Therapy Sessions
- Grief, Loss and Bereavement
- End of Life Care Resources

This clinical guide is available in October 2010. Join our mailing list to be notified when the guide is available for purchase.